Generally speaking, everyone (Ji Luo, Anna Kraft, Isaiah Bentz, and Kelvin Ngo) has contributed to our project so far and worked well together. Some highlights though:

Isaiah Bentz: His tasks seem on the heavier side as he is creating assets for the cats' appearance. He has already made the base for what every cat should look like and now is working on making code to implement unique colors for every cat.

Anna Kraft: Anna did a lot of working compiling our ideas and discussions from our zoom meeting into the writeup for today. More specifically she did most of the work for the writeup.

Ji Luo: Suggested useful ideas during discussion and contributed figuring out what tasks everyone should be doing.

Kelvin Ngo: I set up the GitHub and the zoom meeting where we discussed our general ideas. My main concern about my contribution is my tasks seems very light in comparison to the others. If my tasks end up being too simple, I'll have to talk to everyone else to see if there is something else I can do in addition to my current task.
